The phrase "there's an App for that" has rung true furthermore today with the introduction of a pregnancy sound system.

Ritmo has been introduced for parents to safely share music between themselves and their developing baby. According to the makers, Nuvo group, the device was created to "share the sensory and emotional experience of bonding through sound and music." The makers have also carried out various pieces of research to back up their new gizmo.

The creators of the device are a group of full-time parents, who also happen to be internationally recognized engineers, award-winning designers, and entrepreneurs. According to the group, the Ritmo will connect to most audio devices with a universal stereo plug and will begin shipping immediately priced at a promotional price of $129.99 down from $149.99.

where does the speaker go?

#1.1 master2k27 on 13 Jan 2010 - 16:20

omg, it goes on the bump

#1.2 +dave164 on 13 Jan 2010 - 16:30

if you watch the video, its a strap type thing which has speakers on.

Don't worry, no ladies will be sitting down with a speaker inbetween there legs 😊

Sooo... just attaching an elasticated strap to a small speaker can be sold for $150? Damn, I'm in the wrong job.

#1.4 still1 on 13 Jan 2010 - 17:59

This is total BS. $149 for the strap. will someone even buy it?

will the baby even understand the language??? lol

I'd recommend the iPod Nano, anything bigger might be difficult to install.

way to go. now you have kids born deaf and/or with brain problems because of the cancer-inducing emission from the device. :/

#3.1 spikey_richie on 13 Jan 2010 - 20:02

Cancer? From a magnet and a coil of copper wire?

#4 ahhell on 13 Jan 2010 - 17:06

Hipster parents are like brides....they pay ungodly amounts of money for the stupidest ****.

I point and laugh at them.

#5 Euphoria on 13 Jan 2010 - 17:14

Now parents can torture their baby with their lack of taste even before it's born....

Cruel and unusual punishment.

#6 DigitalManifestations on 13 Jan 2010 - 18:12

Apparently all this crap doesn't work anyways. Like the playing classical music in the womb, baby Einstein crap. There really is no benefit from this. It's a simple cash grab from companies that want to exploit the idiocy of some people. Granted playing music has it's benefits but it certainly won't make your baby smarter. (I know this product isn't about that but I wanted to throw that out there.)

Seems as some parents want to speak to their babies in the womb, while others want to kill their babies.

#8 +Smigit on 13 Jan 2010 - 22:25

And after the birth you will spend the next 20 years trying to work out a way to avoid the kids noise.

#9 Saburac on 13 Jan 2010 - 23:24

That's stupid, are their ears even formed yet? If they can hear are their brains developed enough to process it? Silly hipster parents will buy anything.
